BAND OPENS 11th SEASON

Serious musical students and fanciers had their cup filled to the brim as the Symphonic Band, under the baton of John Pandolfi, performed at Gilbert Bristol Auditorium on Sunday. The band was greeted by a large audience as they opened their 11th season for the first of 3 concerts.

Mr. Faust Fiore, a member of the band, was featured soloist on the flute. Mr. Fiore demonstrated the high caliber of artistic talent in the band as he was featured in a brilliant rendition of the intricate musical gymnastics of Concertino Op. 107. He explored the full range of his instrument with great precision and subtle feeling. Mr. Fiore's rendition was greeted with thunderous appreciation by the audience and he encoored with a lighter selection which revealed another facet of his instrument's charm.

The intermission was cleverly set up as a magic show. Out of the "hat" a procession of toddlers emerged carrying red letters on placards. Due to the omission of a key magic word the parade was in mass confusion. However, after a withdrawal to regroup, the tots entered again and this time clearly as a commercial for the SNO-BALL, December 1. The little #1 nearly panicked from the applause and the lights but was coaxed back in place by John Atkinson, the originator of the plot. John Atkinson, president of the Tri-County Music Association, was commentator as in previous years. He had the original members of the band stand to be recognized, and they and John Pandolfi enjoyed the hearty good wishes of their audience.

The band played well in a series of selections predominantly heavier and more difficult than previous programs have been.

A New Name For An Old Institution

Yes, after doing business for 125 years as the Wareham Savings Bank, we are changing our name!

Beginning November 1st, when we merge with the Plymouth Savings Bank, another fine and even older institution, our name will become PLYMOUTH SAVINGS BANK. Parting with our former name is not easy for us because it has become a familiar part of us which you have grown to recognize over the years. Our new name, however, retains the historical significance of the broader areas we serve, and, in effect, ties us to a heritage which dates back to the very beginning of our great country.

To you, the customer of the former Wareham Savings Bank, the new PLYMOUTH SAVINGS BANK will offer the services of a banking institution having assets of approximately $120,000,000. and three full-service offices. The creation of this consolidated bank is a positive, forward step which can now provide greater services and facilities to the Wareham-Plymouth-Falmouth area.

PLYMOUTH SAVINGS BANK is more than a new name for an old institution, because it signals the beginning of an entirely new era: the initial step which prepares our new bank for the future growth expected in the Wareham-Plymouth-Falmouth area in the years ahead.

new tenants who, for the most part, liked the visibility, colors and spaciousness of their new home.

Both students and faculty expressed their elation at being back on a more normal schedule after nearly two months of afternoon sessions in the high school, and still more important to have their own school.

There was the expected confusion of an opening day in strange surroundings, although many students quickly found their way around the new building. Most of the difficulty for the students came opening lockers. Combinations were either forgotten or not worked properly. Teachers did a lot of overtime locker duty.

A short welcoming ceremony was held in the cafetorium where, in addition to Mr. Gardner, Principal Dr. Frank P. Gifune, Jr., Dr. Joseph C. Kunces, superintendent of Dr. Gifune reminded the students of how much planning and work went into the building and that now the responsibility for making something good happen in it was theirs. "Use it right," he admonished the students.

Students become familiar with new lockers in hall of new Junior High School.

Dr. Kunces praised the building committee for its splendid efforts, calling them a "really talented group" of men and women. He, too, advised the group to use the building, but not abuse it.

Mr. Brown took time to point out how the building committee planned the building with both students and faculty in mind. "We sought visibility, openness, color in answer to students' requests," Brown said.

FAIRHAVEN TOPS OR 36 to 14

A talented Fairhaven quarterback Dave Almeida backed up by the running of Joe Jason and a balanced and well meshed line ran roughshod over the Old Rochester Bulldogs in Saturday's game at Fairhaven Stadium. The scoring started early and often in the initial stages of the contest. The first drive started from the Fairhaven 41 yard line as Fairhaven received. A slick lateral play from Almeida to Kent Hemingway to Jason was good to the Bulldog 20. Three plays later Almeida

The general public is invited to the evening service which will be followed by a coffee hour.

P.T.C. Letter to Matt. School Committee

At the November 2nd meeting of the Mattapoisett Parent-Teachers' Club a presentation was given on the recent evaluation of our schools under the State Educational Goals Program. Under the goal of "Basic Communication Skills" many parents expressed concern that certain children were not receiving proper assistance to overcome reading/learning disabilities which cause serious problems as a child progresses through school.

After hearing the views of many teachers, administrators and parents, it was decided that additional qualified personnel are required. Therefore, the following motion was unanimously passed by the

"Recognizing the urgent need for additional personnel to provide for the needs of students with identified or suspected learning disabilities, especially in the area of reading, it is recommended by the Mattapoisett PTC that the Mattapoisett School Committee include in its next annual school budget sufficient funds to employ the following personnel for the school year 1972-1973:

1. A full-time reading/learning disabilities specialist for Center School.
2. A full-time reading/learning disabilities specialist for Old Hammondtown School.
3. A full-time guidance-home school adjustment counselor for both schools.
4. A full-time speech therapist for both schools.
5. A regional developmental psychologist or psychometrist."

This problem is not peculiar to just Mattapoisett, as the U. S. Office of Education maintains that we have a national reading crisis based on the nationwide statistics that "one in four students is performing two or more years below his grade level".

While alternative actions, other than those listed above, may be developed following a complete study of the problem,

Y.W.C.A. Events

November 12th through 18th is YWCA
World Mutual Service Week, a period devoted to highlighting the Association International work. New members are needed to join women in 80 countries throughout the world who are working to eliminate racism, improve the quality of housing, education and living. Also to develop programs for better nutrition, child and health care. YWCA members know that there is need for peace, equal justice,
and an upgrading of the status of women,
and a need to do something about them.

The YWCA offers women of all ages the arena from which to voice and act upon their concerns. It is a local, national and world movement that really moves, never stands still, working to bridge the gulfs in a world of contradictions; affluence and poverty, security and emotional fear, equal justice and racial discrimination.

Tobey Appeal

TOBEY HOSPITAL APPEALS FOR YEAR-END GIFTS

With only two months left in 1972, the Building Fund Committee of Tobey Hospital asks everyone to give what they can to help it reach the $3-million building fund goal by the end of the year. These funds were needed to build the new five-story Susanna K. Tobey wing with 42 additional beds for patients and vastly improved facilities for special medical and para-medical services.

During this past summer and fall, with the help of several major gifts and with contributions from hundreds of other generous friends, the total amount contributed and pledged to the Building Fund has reached

The sessions were extremely popular with the students and plans are being made to $2,583,000, 86% of the goal.

Efforts to reach new donors are continuing, and those who were not able to give a year ago when the Fund drive started are being asked to review their commitments. One-time donors in 1971 and early in 1972 who could not pledge more at that time may be able, it is hoped, to make additional gifts before the year ends.

Most of the special service departments in the new wing are in full operation, and patients can be cared for in the new rooms in the immediate future when the major sewerage system construction program in Wareham will be completed. Visitors to the hospital are always welcome, and a tour of the new wing can be arranged by calling the Administrator's office (295-

STUDDS AND WEEKS APPEAR AT ORR

With the advent of the 18-year old vote, there is an increasing interest in politics among young people. Senior high school students went to the polls for the first time this November 7th. Consequently, the Senior Contemporary Affairs class at Old Rochester Regional High School invited the two candidates for Congress from the 12th district to visit their school. Mr.
Weeks appeared on October 12th and Mr.
Studds on October 24th. Both candidates spent approximately one hour responding to questions by the student body.

MARINE SCIENCES PROGRAM ESTABLISHED AT MASS. MARITIME ACADEMY

The Massachusetts Maritime Academy will establish a Marine Sciences program and laboratory, serving students of Bay State colleges, at its 55-acre campus bordering the Cape Cod Canal on Buzzards Bay.

Announcing the new far-reaching program, Lee F. President Harrington said the objective of the new program would be to advance and disseminate education and research in the marine sciences.

He noted the project program has received the unanimous endorsement of the presidents of all Massachusetts state colleges and also the blessing of the Pre-colleges system.

The 1973 summer program will encompass four three-week sessions extending from June 11 through August 31, during which college-level students will be occupied for six to eight hours for five days weekly in course work, lectures, seminars, laboratory and field research.

Plans call for establishing a well-equipped marine sciences laboratory at the Academy, Harrington stated, beginning with the dockside building, which has a 6100-square foot capacity.

"We have all the natural resources at the Academy," Harrington stressed. "We have water, the extensive pier, the craft and other benefits which puts us far ahead of other institutions involved in ocean sciences.

"Five colleges in the state college sysparticipation. Several others have indi-
